

COURTNEY D. MOSKOWITZ

courtney_moskowitz@yahoo.com // www.courtneymoskowitz.com

EDUCATION

Carnegie Mellon University, Pittsburgh, PA
MHCI, Master of Human-Computer Interaction, Dec. 2003
GPA: 3.69

Cornell University, College of Human Ecology, Ithaca, NY
B.S. in Human Development, May 2002
Concentration in Design and Environmental Analysis
GPA: 3.51

EXPERIENCE

Digitas, New York, NY
Lead Interaction Designer Oct 2006 – present
Senior Interaction Designer Jan 2005 – Oct 2006

- Design online experiences for major brands as part of an interdisciplinary team.
- Lead projects from concepting stage through documentation and production.
- Create wireframes, site maps and flows, and detailed functional requirements.

Carnegie Mellon University, Pittsburgh, PA
Research Associate June 2003 – July 2004

- Co-designed the interface for Chameleon, a usability-centered computer security system.
- Built and user-tested paper prototypes.
- Created a detailed Visual Basic prototype that included a functional file system.
- Designed user studies, conducted cognitive walkthroughs, and ran think-aloud user tests.

General Motors Project, Pittsburgh, PA
HCI Team Member/Leader Jan. 2003 – Aug. 2003

- Designed and prototyped a vehicle navigation interface from the idea generation stage through maturity.
- Conducted and analyzed contextual inquiry studies as a source of data for innovation.
- Refined a high-level prototype over six iterations, each firmly grounded in user data.

SOFTWARE SKILLS

Microsoft Visio • Adobe Illustrator • Adobe Photoshop • Macromedia Director / Lingo • Visual Basic • Macromedia Flash 8 • Java programming language • HTML • Microsoft Word • Microsoft Excel

PUBLICATIONS

A. Chris Long and Courtney Moskowitz. "Simple Desktop Security With Chameleon." Designing Secure Systems That People Can Use, O'Reilly & Associates, 2005.